

Giorgio Walter Canonica

Giorgio Walter is Professor of Respiratory Medicine at Humanitas University, Milan-Italy & Director Personalized Medicine Asthma & Allergy Center at Humanitas Research Hospital IRCCS-Milano Italy

Professor Canonica got his medical degree from the University of Genoa, Italy.

- specialised in Pulmonary Diseases in Genoa
- specialised in Allergy and Clinical Immunology at Florence University, Italy.

He subsequently conducted clinical immunology and allergology research at several European & US Universities and Institutes, such as the

- Biomedicum-Uppsala University Sweden
- MUSC-Medical University of South Carolina, Charleston, USA.

Since returning to the University of Genoa in 1995, Professor Canonica has held a number of academic positions, including:

- Full Professor Internal Medicine
- Director of the Speciality School of Allergy and Clinical Immunology
- Full Professor of Pulmonary Medicine
- Director of the Specialty School of Pulmonary Diseases
- Chairman of the Department of Medical Specialties (University Hospital San Martino Genoa, Italy).

- Laurea Honoris Causa – Cluji-Napoca Medical University -Romania
- He has been defined LEGEND of Allergy and Immunology in 2021 , Allergy. 2021;00:1–3.
- 2022 Lyfetime Achievement Award – APAACI- Asian Pacific Association Allergy

Clinical Immunology- Manila

- 2023 Lyfetime Achievement Award WAO- World Allergy Organization -Dubai